

Life Sciences Workforce Conference

MAY 31, 2023

The Annual Life Sciences Workforce Conference convenes professionals from across the industry to discuss significant topics affecting the training, recruitment, and retention of talent. The interactive event sparks discussion on ways industry, government, and academia can work together to develop and secure a talented and diverse workforce now and in the future.

Sponsorship packages can be customized across signature events, programs, and resources. Contact helen.harding@massbioed.org for more information.
